Conclusions

1. Communication is a right for all, & needs to be available to people who need it. Providers & therapists need to provide ways to remove barriers for AAC users and provide support & knowledge to families.
2. As assistive technology manufacturers and developers, we need to continue improving & developing tools for our AAC population.
3. Inclusive spaces & visibility is essential for the future of AAC and inclusion in our world.
4. The importance of introducing AAC as soon as possible for anyone using AAC. This will determine their autonomy and opportunities to participate with their environment.
